With F.M.L.

I've always wondered about will.

No, not the guy down the way. You know: the thing, the desire to do something.

Where does it come from? Beside some guy by that name, I've never seen a will, other than a piece of paper, which is an extension beyond death of what I'm talking about.

Does it "well up" like the writer says about "desire welling up" in one or more of his characters?

Does it just happen, like a crazy bolt which compels you to do something on the whim of a moment?

Does it exist, like brain waves, which now are measureable, somewhere in the ether?

Does it come from somebody else who "turns you on" or inspires you?

Does it function unto itself, without sense of direction or concern for consequences, good or bad?

Does it not make a difference in every activity, man, animal or mineral happenchance or not?

Would there be life without it?

NOW-NOW-NOW

In case you're wondering, The Herald ran four pages of color in the February 14, Valentine edition, two pages two colors, two pages three colors.

We run color all the time, but this was a first for that much color in one edition.

As magazines continue to fade and with the advent of good color TV, you are going to see more newspaper color. European newspapers run fewer pages and quite a lot of our color process, color like slick magazines.

The reason is European newspapers charge more on newsstands, make money on circulation as well as advertising. American newspapers do well to break even on circulation costs, which are breaking the magazines.

With a pinch on newsprint at present, newspapers may reduce size and go for quality which a discriminating public demands even if they don't appreciate it.

You see it in your Herald as rapidly as anywhere.

GEARING FOR MODERNIZATION -- Mechanical engineer John Kapustay, left, process engineer Gerry Turnbow and technician Ernie Vogelsang measure existing carbon baking facilities to set the stage for construction of the new furnace included in Alcoa's multi-million dollar modernization project. The program, which will require about 200 construction workers at the peak of activity, begins in April and will be completed by mid-1975, according to operations manager Fred P. Bergeron.

Alcoa Plans Modernization

Aluminum Company of America's Rockdale Works has announced plans to begin a multi-million dollar modernization of its carbon anode manufacturing facility.

Alcoa's Central Texas plant, which operates both the largest aluminum smelter and carbon anode installation in the U. S., will complete the extensive facelift in mid-1976.

The project calls for construction of a fifth carbon baking furnace, eight-tank petroleum coke storage complex, potlining building and rodding room refurbishing, according to Fred Bergeron, operations manager.

"Although no additional permanent employment will be necessary, the program again underlies Alcoa's faith and confidence in the future of its Rockdale plant investment," Bergeron said. "The multi-faceted program is not designed to significantly add capacity, but to moernize existing facilities and improve efficiency and working conditions."

Carbon anodes, made from a mixture of calcined petroleum coke and pitch, are necessary as an electrode in the electrolytic Hall-type aluminum-making process invented by Alcoa 86 years ago and used worldwide today, the Alcoa official explained. He said it takes two pounds of aluminum ore and a half-pound of carbon in a solution of aluminum floride and sodium flouride to produce a pound of molten aluminum.

Approximately 12,000 600 - pound anodes are used weekly in the process at the Central Texas plant.

The two ingredients are mixed, formed in blocks by 2500 ton presses and baked at over 2000 degrees. The total cycle -- pre-heating, baking and cooling -- takes about 40 days. Steel stub rods are attached to the anodes with molten cast iron at the rodding room prior to delivery to the potrooms.

In gearing for new construction, Alcoa is expanding its fencing south of the plant for storage of new equipment as it arrives and awaits installation. Bergeron said construction employment will reach nearly 200 at the activity's peak over the next three years, with some 10-12 contractors on site at various times throughout the program designed to keep Rockdale Works a viable, competitive operation in Alcoa's worldwide smelter network.

In separate multi-million dollar projects already under way, pollution-control equipment is being installed on two carbon plant stacks and two boiler stacks at the power-generation plant. Electrostatic precipitators will be installed on the power plant's boilers by May 1975, while an Alcoa-designed system will be operative at the carbon plant by the end of 1974.

Area Roundup

Drillers Seeking Smackover

ROCKDALE

After encountering what was described as a "real strong show of gas" at below 13,000 feet in one of the Cotton Valley formations, the No. 1 S. P. Peebles deep test is heading on down and ready to skim the top of the Smackover. The well is being drilled by Loffland Brothers for Amoco Production Co. about 7 miles east of Lexington and while it expected the Smackover at around 16,000 feet, observers now are looking for that formation at between 15,000 and 15,500 feet. The Smackover is recognized by the oil fraternity as a prime oil-bearing formation.

Sheriff Moving From Jail

GATESVILLE

No longer will be county sheriff's apartment be located in the jail building, following action by commissioners court. The lower floor of the jail building will house offices for the sheriff, his deputies, the radio dispatcher and other law enforcement officers. The sheriff and his wife will move to a home they own. In lieu of the free rent and utilities he has been receiving the sheriff will receive $150 a month expense money. The change will allow a jailer to be on duty at all times, and was hastened by the actions of unruly inmates at the jail. The rebellious inmates have broken off water faucets, flooding lower floors, and burned blankets and mattresses.

Attorney Investigating Deficit

HEARNE

County Atty. Bryan Russ told the Hearne city council that his office and the sheriff's department are going to investigate an alleged deficit in city funds. Russ informed the council that due to the recent publicity given the shortage of funds, the matter had become of interest to the public and his office. An audit has been made pointing out the descrepancy of $10,638.03 but it will have to be determined if the loss existed or if this is a clerical error.

Stolen Bank Property Returned

SOMERVILLE

Burleson County Sheriff Alfred Wilhelm has returned the safety deposit boxes stolen from the First State Bank at Deanville on Sept. 19 to bank officials. Stocks, bonds, deeds and other papers were recovered with the boxes, the sheriff said. Continued interrogation of two men arrested last fall in connection with the robbery brought information that led to the finding of the boxes and their contents in a gulley in a deserted area northwest of Austin in Travis County.

Schools Count High Absentees

BELTON

Belton public schools were open last week despite an average 18 percent absence because of illness. Dr. William B. Long, board president, said that his medical clinic had one of its busiest days in clinic history on Monday and the largest Sunday emergency patient list in many years. Another doctor reported the largest number of patients in history in his office last Monday. Belton is one of the many schools in Central Texas which have been plagued by illnesses among students to the extent that doors have been closed.

Electric Rates Up 28%

GEORGETOWN

The price for electricity will rise by 28 percent over January's price in Georgetown. The city council passed on a portion of the increased fuel adjustment clause presented to the city by LCRA. The mayor explained that though the city will be charged with a 76 percent increase, the consumer will be presented with only a 28 percent increase. This is due to the fact that the city will not ask for profits. The mayor said, "If we collect 100 percent of our electric income, we will break even." The council remarked that until last October, the power company had not raised prices in 32 years.

Kestenbaum Wins Lawsuit Over Falstaff

A jury in U. S. District Court in Waco Thursday awarded Dana I. Kestenbaum of Cameron $60,517 in damages from his antitrust lawsuit against Falstaff Brewing Corporation.

Damage awards in antitrust cases are by law tripled, making the total damages $181,005.

The jury of four women and two men deliberated part of Wednesday and most of Thursday before returning its ruling to U. S. District Judge Jack Roberts. The hearing started last Monday afternoon.

Kestenbaum filed his suit in April, 1972, claiming that Falstaff violated the Sherman Anti-Trust Act by forcing him to sell his four-county distributorship through a series of unlawful practices including price fixing.

Prior to the sale in 1971, Kestenbaum was Falstaff distributor for Milam, Robertson, Burleson and Brazos counties.

Kestenbaum also claimed he was required by his franchise agreement with Falstaff to engage in other practices in violation of antitrust laws such as forced stockpiling, maintenance of multiple warehouses, arbitrary advertising and adherence to territorial limitations.

He originally sought $121,200 for damages.

Kestenbaum was represented by Jack Price , a Longview attorney, and the Cameron firm of Humble and Magre. Waco attorney David Kultgen represented Falstaff.

Energy Office Rolls Propane Prices Back

AUSTIN

Texas Attorney General John L. Hill says that the Federal Energy Office has "rolled back" propane prices in response to the urgings of attorneys general of Texas and six other states -- Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Alabama and Illinois.

The roll back resulted from a revised FEO interpretation of existing regulations regarding propane, and the Federal Energy Office also announced the beginning of an official investigation into the charges of a propane price manipulation.

The roll back of prices for propane produced after Jan. 31, 1974, to a May 15, 1973, base price should result in a substantial reduction of price, Hill said -- perhaps, more than 30% of the current wholesale price, and should mean a saving of more than $210 million for Texas users.

Attorney General Hill noted that an estimated 1,500,000 Texans residing in some 600,000 homes use the propane gas as a primary fuel source. In addition, Texas Liquified Petroleum Gas Association figures indicate that 75% of all Texas farmers use this fuel for all agricultural production.

Hill recalled that when the Cost of Living Council ordered a ceiling in the spring of 1973 for 23 major oil companies, it did not set a ceiling for independents and brokers, causing an "artificial shortage." With the lifting of the ceiling in Phase II, the cost jumped in one year from 5.5¢ per gallon wholesale to 25¢ per gallon, upping the average consumer's cost from about 14% to 40¢ or more.

Assistant Texas Attorney General Frank Cooksey, who appeared with Arkansas Attorney General Jim Guy Tucker at the FEO's Feb. 6 hearing in Washington D. C., noted that spiraling costs not only worked a hardship on persons of fixed incomes, but would force the price of farm produce to be increased.

More FHA Funds Available For Ag Producers

Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco announced that the Department of Agriculture says that an additional $175 million will be made available for Farmers Home Administration operating loans from now to June 30, the end of the 1974 fiscal year.

This raises the total of funds available to $525 million, Poage said.

Of this additional amount, Poage was told, $10,400,000 will be available for loans to farmers and ranchers in Texas. This will raise the totals of available operating loans to $41,400,000.

The loans under 6 3/4 percent and usually run for 10 to 12 months.

With this additional sum, Poage said, FHA should be able to accommodate most of those farmers and ranchers who need financial assistance to meet production expenses on this year's crop but who are unable to obtain financing from conventional local sources.

Bloodmobile Due Here Wednesday

The Yoe High Honor Society is busy this week rounding up volunteer donors for the Red Cross Bloodmobile visit due Wednesday from 1 until 7 p.m. at Methodist Fellowship Hall. Quota for Cameron is 73 units.

Yoe High School students are expected to be among donors Wednesday.

Last year Milam County residents used 339 units of blood and components locally and 268 units were shipped to other hospitals for county resident's credit. This makes a total of 607 units that were required to meet county needs, and now is the time for new donors to get into this vital program.

Mrs. John Moseley, local blood program chairman, emphasized that every resident of Milam County is covered by the Red Cross Blood Program. This includes every resident's parents, parents-in-law, grandparents and grandparents in-law regardless of their place of residence.

Blood is replaced at the hospital where it is used on a one-for-one basis. It is the resident's responsibility to notify the local blood program chairman or the Red Cross Blood Center in Waco. An inquiry is sent to the hospital and the Red Cross replaces the blood used.

There is no charge for Red Cross blood -- only for processing and handling. The $18 fee for each units covers the cost of the bags tha the blood is drawn in, the salaries of the nurses and lab personnel, the cost of testing and processing the blood and the cost of delivering blood to the hospital.

If you had to pay for blood in addition, the cost would be much higher -- in some cases more than double.

The Red Cross Blood Program uses only volunteer donors, since they are far less likely to have hepatitis. This lessens the chances of transfusing an unhealthy unit of blood.

"First-time donors are usually frightened of the needle," the Red Cross added. "Once people have given blood and realize how easy it is, they overcome their fear. What's a small stick in an arm compared to saving a life."

Chamber Elects L. W. Stroup President

L. W. Stroup, Jr. will serve as president of the Cameron Chamber of Commerce, taking office in March, according to an announcement from the chamber.

Stroup has been active in Chamber work, serving as chairman of various committees and as a director for several years. He succeeds Gene Blake, who served as president the past year.

Also elected to the executive board are William Kelm as first vice president and Billy McCutchen, second vice president.

Elected to serve on the board of directors for three year terms are McCutchen, Charles McGregor, Bill Dase, Douglas Buck, James Hudson, and Derwood Cobb.

Six members were appointed to serve one year terms including Kelm, Richard Crowe, Keith Raine, Mrs. Lois Hill, Charles Kunz and Dr. Douglas Perrin.

School Transfers Due By May 1

Parents who wish to transfer children from their home school district to another area for the 1974-75 scholastic year should make necessary application to the receiving district by May 1, 1974, Leon R. Graham, Texas Education Agency assistant commissioner for administration announced.

The May 1 deadline for requests will enable school districts to file summary reports with the Texas Education Agency by May 15, Graham points out.

These reports will be reviewed by the Agency to make sure none of the transfer requests violate U. S. District Court Order 5281 issued by Judge William Wayne Justice.

Burned Child Reported 'Better'

Scott Dewayne Jones, 5, was reported "a tiny bit better" by a family spokesman Friday. The child is still in the intensive care unit of Brooke Army Medical Center.

The boy, from Maysfield, was taken to San Antonio from St. Edward Hospital February 9 after he was critically burned when a car he was in caught fire and burned.

Two other children in the car, Christopher Jones, 2, and Gwendolyn Jones, 4, died as a result of burns suffered in the fire.

Solzhenitsyn Is...

Alexander Solzhenitsyn, man with a cause, is without a country.

He is going to Switzerland after a stopover in West Germany after being expelled from Russia. His latest documentary on the Soviet prison system during the Stalin regime forced the Politboro to arrange his deportation.

He stayed at the home of novelist Heinrich Boell, a West German Nobel laureate, before deciding to go to permanent residence in Switzerland. Several countries offered asylum.

It was thought for months he would be arrested, summarily tried and sent into confinement or executed. He had been confined in prison camps or in Siberian exile for about 10 years after World War II.

These experiences led to three novels and the final documentary, all published outside Russia, which brought official charges of treason sometime during his departure from Russia. He is using part of $80,000 in Nobel Prize money to relocate in Western Europe. His family will be allowed to join him, sources say.

Communist officials have dealt with internal political criticism several ways. The heavy handedness of Stalin purges is past, but hundreds of thousands continue to find themselves in detention camps or prison for political reasons. Two Soviet poets in the past two years were tried and sentenced to prison.

Soviet intellectuals and leaders in Western governments have joined in praise of the author's latest work, perhaps the only reason he is still alive and outside Russia.

But the price for this man of 53 is enormous, though rewarding. Truth knows no domicile and needs none. It is.

House Named Cameron...

Directors of Waco Creative Art Center are planning remodeling of Cameron house at McLennan Community College for permanent location of the art center.

It is good to see a house with this town's name being perpetuated. It is likely the old residence came by the name from one of the old Waco families. Cameron, of course, is named after Ewen Cameron, who was a Texas patriot prior to Texas' becoming a republic or a state.

It is interesting how a mix of financing was employed to cover costs of preliminary plans of remodeling: one-third each from Waco Perpetual Growth Foundation, Duncan Foundation and Waco Junior League, which is sponsor of the center.

When completed, the center will be permanent facility for teaching, exhibition and enjoyment of the arts, according to The Waco Tribune-Herald.

Instead of being lost, this Cameron house will be useful for new generation in new ways.

Foreign Companies Woo Poland For Coal Supply

By Trevor Wood

WARSAW Reuter -- Foreign companies are wooing Poland with offers of investment credits as the world fuel crisis brings an unexpected bonanza to this communist country.

Poland's steadfast faith in coal, its "black gold" -- often against the tide of international opinion - is beginning to pay dividends as the world looks for alternative energy resources.

In the time which has elapsed since the fuel crisis erupted, several foreign enterprises have put in their bids to help Poland develop further its mining industry, hoping to secure long-term coal deliveries in return for their credits.

Deputy Mining Minister Mieczyslaw Glanowski would go no further than to say that all the proposals were being thoroughly examined.

But he indicated Poland would eventually take up some of the offers of credits when he said it planned to meet the future coal requirements of both its home market and of its traditional overseas customers.

Glanowski forecast in an interview an increase of about a third in coal exports during the next few years.

Speaking of a possible annual export of 50 million tons of coal, he said the increased production would of necessity mean greater investment.

Poland is already the fourth largest producer of coal and the second largest exporter after the United States.

It is Poland's largest single export commodity and its largest hard currency earner.

Exports this year are expected to be more than 37 million tons, compared with 32.7 million last year. About 15 million tons go to countries of the European Common Market.

Glanowski was unable to say how much of the increased exports are directly attributable to the fuel crisis, although several western countries have announced emergency imports of Polish coal.

Poland was already laying the foundations for increased exports before the crisis suddenly aroused world interest in its precious commodity.

A new port in Gdynia, one of the country's most ambitious projects due to go into operation next year, was designed partly to handle coal exports.

Poland has also laid down the keel of its first 100,000 ton coal freighter.

Both West Germany and the U.S. are seeking to cooperate with Poland in perfecting a method of extracting gas and liquid fuels from coal.

Peril At The Bank

Henrietta was waiting to cash a check at the neighborhood bank when a man in the next line began firing a pistol. One of the bullets struck her in the leg. Later, after getting more facts, she decided she was entitled to collect damages from the bank.

"It was a holdup," Henrietta explained in a court hearing, "and the man ordered the teller not to move. Instead of obeying, the teller dived down behind the counter. That is when the holdup man started to shoot. If the teller had not panicked, I would not have been injured. And a bank is legally liable for the negligent acts of its employees."

But the court turned down her claim, refusing to condemn the teller for his instinctive reaction.

"His life was in jeopardy," said the court. "He cannot be held to perfect judgment under the circumstances."

Although a bank does owe extraordinary care for the safety of your money, it owes only ordinary care for the safety of your person. If you get hurt on the bank's premises, you cannot collect damages unless you can prove negligence.

Thus, in a more everyday situation, a bank was held not liable to a man who slipped on its front step. The step, although somewhat worn, was no more hazardous than one might encounter almost anywhere.

Of course, reasonable precautions must be taken. In another holdup case, a man with a bomb told bank officials he would blow the place up if they did not hand over $10,000.

Young Farmers Set March Seminar

Fort Worth has been the place in the Southwest where it has been happening for the past years, and it is about time for it to happen this year.

On March 8 and 9 the Texas Association of Young Farmers will again converge upon Fort Worth for one of the most important seminars for Young Farmers in 1974. The seminar is being held in conjunction with the Southwest Hardware and Implement Association dealers annual convention, and the crowd-drawing Southwest Farm Show and Tractor Pull.

Young Farmers, with their new president, Erwin C. Gisler of the Three Rivers' Chapter, will arrive on March 8 and begin the seminar with a noon luncheon. The luncheon will be sponsored bythe various manufacturers who not only will be conductingthe seminar, but will have approximately six million dollars onquipment on display throughout the entire Farm Show.

Continuing the seminar through Saturday, Young Farmers will have a chance to exchange ideas and collect valuable information from the experts on hand about some major topics of 1974. One of the most timely of these topics is "Fuel Economy Through Maintenance" in which the Young Farmer will be shown how to get the most use from his equipment with the supply of fuel on-hand.

Arab Oil Prices Set Japan's Economy Back

By Yuko Nakamikado

TOKYO Reuter -- Japan faces a state of emergency as the grandiose plans of Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka to make the country more livable are set back by the Arab oiloffensive.

Tanaka published his blueprint for the remodeling of the Japanese archipelago in book-form shortly before he took over as prime minister in July last year.

But in place of the "good life", Japan is headed for a recession and Tanaka's popular political support has slumped drastically.

A survey by the national daily, Asahi Shimbun, at the end of November showed that a record 60 per cent of the people lacked confidence in the Tanaka cabinet, compared with only 10 per cent in the month after he took office.

Public discontent has been boosted by spiraling inflation which Tanaka has refused to call inflation - which sent early December wholesale prices rocketing 27 per cent above the level of a year before.

The Asahi Shimbun survey also said three out of every four Japanese were preoccupied with the everyday problems caused by inflation.

Now heading the government of the country hardest hit by the Gulf States decision to double the price of crude oil from Jan. 1, Tanaka is likely to face more agitation as the country moves into the new year, with elections for the upper house of parliament due in the summer.

Already critics have accused the cabinet of acting too slowly to placate the Arabs and ensure continued supplies for the economy, which relies on imported oil for 70 per cent of its energy needs.

The government waited until the second half of December to declare a state of emergency that would enable it to control oil supplies and distribution, and select other commodities for similar treatment, some critics say.

Among other measures, offices and factories will suffer a 20 per cent cut in oil and electricity supplies. Restaurants, bowling alleys and other leisure facilities will have to close early and some forms of advertising lighting will be banned.

Television stations will have to shorten their programs, certain types of neon and decorative lighting will be banned, and the government plans to introduce summer time all year round.

The government has clamped down on credit, aiming to channel funds to essential and urgent needs. The Bank of Japan has aised its official discount rate to nine per cent.

Public works outlays on the plans Tanaka envisaged when he took office -- bridges, road and rail construction -- are being postponed.

Tanaka has admitted that his growth-oriented plans for building a new Japan have had to be slowed down. The government expects real economic growth in the year beginning in April 1974 to be only 2.5 per cent, the lowest since the recession year of 1954, compared with an estimated 6.3 per cent for the current year.

The prime minister has described the oil crisis as a "trial Japan has never experienced before," and as leader of the Liberal Democratic party, he has moved to protect his flanks and minimize the political damage.

After the death of Finance Minister Kiichi Aichi, he brought into the cabinet his chief rival, Takeo Fukuda, to fill the vacant post.

Fukuda, who served as a finance minister for more than six years during the 1960s had been a critic of Tanaka after being defeated for the leadership of the Liberal Democrats -- and the premiership.

The new finance minister is an advocate of stabilized economic growth in place of Tanaka's high growth policy.

By appointing his rival to the key cabinet post, Tanaka has headed off open criticism and has been able to modify his economic policies without loss of face, blaming them on the oil crisis.

Poage Terms Fuel Allotment 'Hopeful'

Chairman W. R. (Bob) Poage, D-Tex., of the House Committee on Agriculture expressed guarded optimism today over prospects that the new fuel allocation regulations just announced by the Federal Energy Office (FEO) would assure agriculture of the fuel needed to meet food and fiber production goals.

"We are pleased that agriculture is given top priority, and is eligible for all of its actual needs," said Chairman Poage in a statement released through his Washington office.

"Priorities in themselves, of course, are not total assurance. The distributors have to get the supplies to pass on to the nation's farmers and ranchers. We will just hope that the petroleum industry will be able to produce these supplies in the quantities needed and see that they are distributed right down the line to the farm tractors, combines and other machinery."

The newly imposed regulations, as outlined by FEO officials to Chairman Poage, provided that agriculture shall get 100 percent of current requirements for gasoline, diesel oil, propane and butane. This priority also extends to such agriculture -- related operations as transportation of crops and food processing as well as such activities as cattle feedlot operations. The regulations also authorize 100 percent of current requirements for fuel for agricultural aviation operations such as crop dusting.

HE CARRIES 5,000 DRUGS...NOT 200

In most retail fields, the typical store carries only enough varieties of goods to satisfy most customers, most of the time. A pharmacy could do the same — by carrying only about 200 different prescription drugs. But today's pharmacist stocks more than 5,000 drugs, even the most obscure, so as to have on hand exactly what the doctor prescribes — for any customer, at any time. It costs the pharmacist a lot of money to maintain such a stock. But you pay only what your prescription is worth. That's why we say . . .

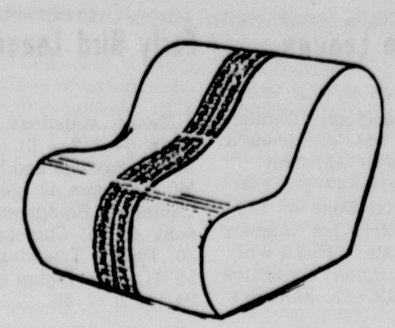
"ROLLER COASTER" CHAIR



MATERIALS NEEDED:

One piece of 46" x 9'6" x 5"-thick "Serosuper" foam padding
6 yards 44"-wide corduroy
Two 27" zippers
6¾ yards 2½"-wide trim

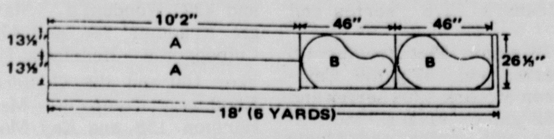


DIAGRAM 1

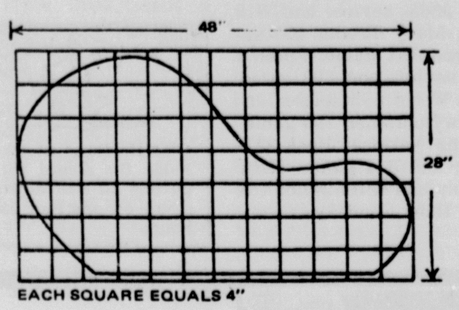

EACH SQUARE EQUALS 4"

Following measurements given in Diagram 1, cut two A for main section of cover. Enlarge graph shown in Diagram 2 and cut paper pattern for side sections. Using pattern, cut two side sections B.

With right sides of fabric together, stitch two A together lengthwise, taking a 1/2" seam, Stitch first 34" with regular machine stitch, back-stitching to reinforce end of 34" seam; continue stitching by machine, using basting stitch , for 54" (lenght of two zippers); stitch remainder of seam with regular stitch, reinforcing beginning of regular stitching. Press seam allowance open. Center two 27" zippers face down along seam on wrong side of fabric, with zipper pulls meeting at center and teeth exactly over seam. Overlap zipper tapes at center and teeth exactly over seam. Ovelap zipper tapes over seam. Overlap zipper tapes at center where zipper pulls meet and stitch around zippers; remove basting. With right sides of fabric together, stitch 25" ends of A together; press seam allowances open.

Cut two 121" lengths of 2 1/2" wide trim. Stitch one length of trim along each side of seamline, being careful not to catch teeth of zippers in stitching and concealing zippers under trim where two lengths of trim meet. (Stitch both edges of trim to fabric.) Open zippers.

With right sides of fabric together, stitch one side section B to each edge of A, being sure to join them so that zippers centered on A will run along bottom and back of chair. Clip seam allowances at curves to make cover fit smoothly. Turn cover to right side.

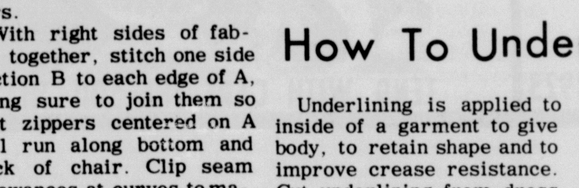
Using paper pattern enlarged from Diagram 2, trace pattern five times on 44" x 9'6" piece of foam padding as shown in Diagram 3. Using an electric knife of hacksaw blade, cut out five pieces of foam (to same size and shaped pieces of faom into corduroy cover, pressing two against each side of cover, matching all curves. Insert remaining piece of foam in the center and close zippers. Pieces of foam will be slightly compressed (because they are 1/2" larger all around than seamed cover), thus filling out the cover smoothly and firmly.

Sew A Gift For The Mother -To-Be

For the mother-to-be in your life, why not make a lovely, homemade Pink Elephant Comforter? Such a quilted comforter will never become a white elephant, be cause it will always be cherished by its lucky owner.

The comforter, is simple to make, and can probably be completed in two afternoon sewing sessions. All you need to make the two-color comforter are two no-iron flat sheets (one pink, one white), two yards of matching no-iron gingham, one comforter size package of polyester batting, and 1/4 yard of iron - on bonding material.

Using two twin sheets, you will have plenty of material left over for baby pillowcases, crib bumper pads and other projects. A one-color version can be made from on twin sheet without the extras by folding sheet in half, cutting the comforter (using same dimensions) and separating along fold.



The flea can make a standing high jump of 100 times its own height and a broad jump of 200 times its own length.

A Better Way

HOW TO WASH PERMANENT PRESS SUCCESSFULLY

Permanent press. Is it a miracle or a myth? That depends on the big IF . . . if permanent press items are laundered properly.

From home economists at the Whirlpool Corporation, where extensive tests have been performed to discover the best way to launder permanent press items so no-iron characteristics are retained, here are some suggestions:

1) Wash frequently—Because permanent press garments stay fresh looking, its tempting to delay laundering. But avoid this because body oil stains (not always noticeable) may build up, making them difficult to remove.

2) Pre-treat stains—Saturate stained area with concentrated liquid detergent or with a paste made from regular detergent. Oil stains (especially collar ring) on brightly colored shirts can be particularly embarrasing. To remove them, simply saturate area with dry cleaning solvent—then with concentrated detergent and wash regularly.

3) Sort properly—as you would for a regular load. Permanent press naturally develops static electricity which attracts lint givers from lint receivers in both washing and drying.

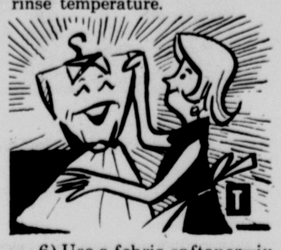
Separate white, light and dark colors, too, because permanent press items pick up color readily.

CROWDING

4) Wash smaller loads—CROWDING causes wrinkles.

5) Wash in the permanent press or wash and wear cycle—using hot or warm water (depending on amount of soil) and cold rinse water temperature.

If your washer does not have a permanent press cycle, follow this procedure: At the end of the wash period, let the washer drain almost completely, then slowly advance the control until the washer begins to fill for deep rinse. Allow washer to complete the cycle automatically. Finally put the washer through an additional rinse cycle. Always use hot or warm water and cold rinse temperature.



6) Use a fabric softener—in the deep rinse to reduce static electricity and prevent clinging. Follow hang-tag instructions regarding bleach use.

7) Tumble drying is recommended-but don't overload the dryer since garments must tumble freely to avoid formation of wrinkles. Drying smaller loads helps avoid wrinkles, too.

8) Remove clothes from the dryer as soon as possible—to avoid wrinkles. That's how to launder permanent press items so you won't have to even touch them with an iron. One additional caution, though . . . quality of permanent press items may vary from brand to brand. And, of course, a poor quality garment will not retain permanent press characteristics no matter how well you wash it. So, when shopping, look for a brand name you know and trust. Select garments with flat seams without puckers.

Then, with proper laundering, your permanent press garments will be much more likely to impress you than depress you.

How To Underline A Dress

Underlining is applied to inside of a garment to give body, to retain shape and to improve crease resistance. Cut underlining from dress pattern pieces. Omit the facings. Transfer all markings to underlining. No markings are needed on outer fabric since underlining and outer fabric are treated as one.

STEP 1:

Place underlining over wrong side of outer fabric keeping both layers flat and wrinkle free. Match and pin center front bastings. Pin every 2-3 inches around all sides of pieces to prevent slipping of fabric layers.

STEP 2:

Hand-baste 3/8 inch from cut edges and along fold line of darts to hold layers of fabric together. Extend basting 1/2 inch beyond point of dart. Remove pins.

STEP 3:

Fold darts on basting line, then pin and stitch on stitching line through all thicknesses of fabric. Remove pins. Press all darts before pinning and stitching seams on 5/8 inch seamline.

STEP 4:

Turn up underlining with the hem. Machine - baste hem to underlining at upper edge. Be sure underlining is smooth and flat on inside of hem. Sew hem to underlining with an invisible stitch. Do not catch outer fabric.

Methods Used To Shift Darts

SERIES #1

Darts used correctly help to make your clothes fit by controlling the shape of the fabric to the curvey of the body.

They control fullness on the figure which may be shifted without altering the size and fit of the finished garment.

No dart should come above the bust point. Underarm darts as well as waistline darts may be lowered to give fullness in the proper place.

Sometimes for the sake of beauty in design the designer finds it preferable to place the dart in one position or another. Listed below are steps used in changing positions of the darts.

To shift the dart from waist line to shoulder seam

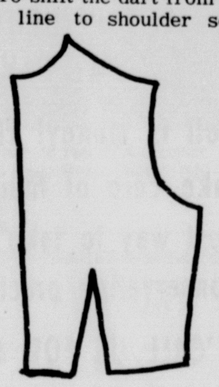


FIGURE 1

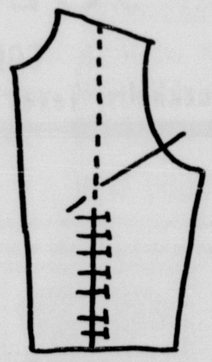

FIGURE 2

Figure (2)

1. Fold the waistline darts into the closed position. Place pins in dart vertically (as in Figure 2)

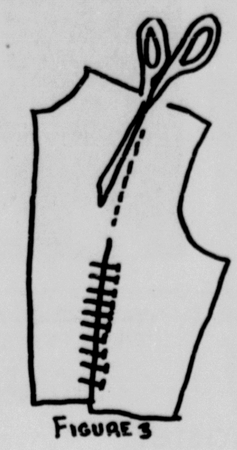

FIGURE 3

Step 3

3. Cut on drawn line from shoulder to bust point (figure 3)

Step 4

4. Flatten the pattern upon the table leaving waistline darts pinned. The shoulder dart opens as the pattern flattens. Draw line AB as in Figure 4.

Tips For Sewing On Buttons

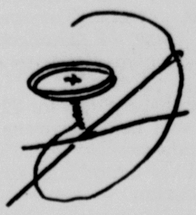
BUTTON WITH HOLES

A button with holes is alway sewed on with a shank. Use doubled thread with knot at end. Insert needle from right side at point marked for button . Place button over knot and sew through holes.

After the first stitch through the button, place a pin across top of button, under thread, so that th read will be loose enogh to form a shank.

After three or four stitches have been taken through each hole, remove pin and wind thread between fabric and button several times to form a shank.

Take several small stitches on wrong side to secure thread before clipping.



COVERED BUTTONS

Use doubled thread with knot at end. Take a stitch on right side at point marked. Then take a stitch through fabric on underside of button; bring needle to wrong side of garment; repeat several times, not pulling thread tight. Then put needle through to right side under button, wind thread a few times around stitches attaching button; put needle through to wrong side, take several small stitches to secure thread; clip

CHINESE BALL BUTTONS

Same as covered buttons.

REINFORCEMENTS

On a single thickness of fabric, place a small square of fabric on the wrong side of garment, folded as shown. On a heavy coat, children's jackets, etc., place a small button the wrong side.

Yoemen Begin Track Workouts

The Cameron Yoemen ended a successful basketball season last Tuesday night. They closed with a 22-7 season record, and the District 12-AAA North Zone title.

As the hopes of a district championship drifted away to the hands of Taylor, Cameron immediately placed their hopes in other areas. Two of these areas were baseball and track.

Baseball practice has been under way since early Februbary, but track started Monday, February 11.

Approximately 20 boys have turned out to compete in the 6 track meet season. According to track coach, Nelson Huffman, things are looking good, and a good season can be expected.

Huffman said that he was impressed with this years team, and that many boys are really working hard.

This year the Cameron Relays will be held on March 16. The relays will be featuring a Master Mile which is for people 35 years of age or older.

The contestant estimates the time which he feels he can run the mile in. The one finishing with a time closest to the one estimated is the winner.

The Yoe track teams first meet will be in Taylor on March 2. The entire track season is as follows:

March 2 Taylor
March 9 Rockdale
March 16 Cameron Relays
March 23 Gatesville
March 30 Belton
April 6 Belton
(District Meet)

Yoe To Get Gym Set

The Cameron Booster Club has voted to purchase a Universal Gym Set for the Yoe High Athletic Department.

According to Athletic Director Ed Cauley, the Gym Set has already been ordered and will arrive in 4 to 6 weeks.

It will feature 16 different stations on which a person can train on. The gym set is sure to be a great improvement, or in Cauley's words, "A phenomenal improvement."

In order to help finance the Gym Set, the high school and junior high athletes are selling posters. They range from those of Cameron to ones of many favorite colleges.

The posters sell for $2.50 each, and can be purchased from any member of the high school or junior high athletic program.

RL Cougars Win District

Henry Zeno tossed in a last second basket to give the Rosebud-Lott Cougars a 39-37 victory over Teague Tuesday night in Marlin. The win gave the Cougars the District 21-AA championship.

Zeno sunk the basket with only 2 seconds remaining in the game, and time ran out before Teague had a chance to tie the Cougars.

Henry Zeno was the leading scorer for Rosebud-Lott with 18 points, Scott had 12, Whitfield 7, and Kahler 2.

Waldley led Teague with 16, and Yellbell followed with 10.

The victory moved the Cougars to a 15-9 season record, and gave them the right to enter bi-district competition.

They will meet the Robinson Rockets at 7:30 p.m. in the Rena Marrs McLean Gym on Tuesday. Their opponent is the District 22-AA representative.

Rena Marrs McLean Gym is located in Waco on the Baylor University Campus.

Master Mile In Yoe Relays

The Cameron Relays will be held on Saturday March 16. This year they will feature a special Master Mile event.

The event is open to anyone 35 years of age or older.

The contestant must predict the time in which he feels he can run the mile in. The one coming closest to their estimated time will be the winner.

Anyone wishing to enter the contest should contact Ed Cauley.

Accent on Health

During this cold weather season, many of us will suffer the consequences of a cold, flu, or respiratory infection even though we may try to avoid or prevent it.

Since the chances are good to have a bout with the "cold bug" this year, it might behoove each of us to know more about what a cold is and what to do with it when you have it, say state health officials.

What is a cold? The common cold is a name given to any of a number of short-lived infections of the nose and throat. All of them are highly contagious. They have similar symptoms. Sometimes they are called by other names, which simple tell you what part of the upper respiratory tract is particularly affected: rhinitis, affecting the nose; pharyngitis, the throat, or laryngitis, the voice box.

What causes a cold? The Texas State Department of Health points out there are many different viruses which cause a cold. A virus is a disease-producing agent so small that it goes right through the very fine filter that stops bacteria. These cold-causing viruses are present in great numbers in your nose and throat when you have a cold. They are carried on the croplets you expel when talking, coughing, or sneezing.

How do you catch a cold? Though a virus causes your cold, a number of conditions seem to increase your susceptibility (science does not yet know why or how.) People appear to catch colds mainly indoors. They get more of them during the colder months. Fatigue, chilling, and poor physical condition seem to give the virus a better foothold.

What's the course of a cold? From one to three dayes after the virus takes hold in your body, the symptoms appear. (But other people can catch your cold even before your symptoms appear -- one reason why colds are hard to prevent.) The first hint is usually scratchiness in the throat. Within a few hours, your nose gets stuffy and you have vague feelings of discomfort and illness. Usually you start sneezing, too.

Within 48 hours, your cold is in full bloom -- eyes teary nose running, voice husky, breathing obstructed, and your senses of taste and smell dulled. You may feel lethargic and achy. It's common to have a moderate headache, especially at the beginning (but a severe one may be a sign of some complication.) You may also have some fever, although that is unusual in adults.

1974 Travel Map Now Available

Initial distribution of the 1974 Texas Official Highway Travel Map was announced today by the Texas Highway Department.

During the year some one million copies will be distributed to Texas drivers, making the map one of the most popular publications in the state.

In this area of fuel conservation, an accurate, up-to-date map is a valuable tool in charting short-line distances, a Highway Department spokesman said.

Although other means of transit are much in the news, the spokesman emphasized that highway travel by all types of motor vehicles will remain the dominant mode of transportation because of the state's sprawling geography.

Travelers are reminded that the map offers far more than most users realize. Study of the 1974 map legend shows that map typography indicates relative sizes of all cities and towns. Each type of highway is scribed differently, from Interstate routes to Farm Roads. Convenient red mileage figures tabulate total miles between major points.

Every rest area along Texas highway is indicated; those with rest rooms are shown by a different symbol. All state parks are pinpointed by number, symbol, and grid coordinates. There are even altitude readings for each county seat.

The back of the map is devoted to enlarged diagrams of all major population areas, with main-line "through routes" clearly shown. On the Dallas-Fort Worth diagram, the immense new regional airport appears for the first time.

For travelers who wish more help in planning their Texas trips, the map pinpoints the Highway Department's 11 tourist information bureaus and visitor centers, where personal assistance by trained travel counselors is available.

Copies of the free map can be obtained at the tourist information centers, Highway Department district offices, or by mail from the Texas Highway Department, Travel and Information Division, P. O. Box 5064, Austin, Texas 78763.

Hearne Band To Present 'Hee Haw'

The production will consist of various singing numbers, jokes and skits. The entire show will be planned, written and performed by members of the Eagle Band.

County Government Needs Authority, Says Rep. Clayton

State Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake told a stateside gathering of county judges and commissioners that "county government needs more authority."

"County government is going to face more and more critical issues as our state continues to become more urban, more industrial and more diverse," Clayton pointed out at the 16th annual County Judges and Commissioners Conference at Texas A&M University. He cited waste disposal, recreation, water supplies and the overspill of people from cities into the country as issues that county government must contend with.

"Land use management is another critical issue that is coming to the fore-front that county government must cope with," the state official said. "Yet, you can't handle these issues effectively with the current restraints being placed on you. That's why you need more authority."

Another speaker at the two-day conference, W. J. Estelle, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Corrections, said that local government should have more control in solving local correctional problems. "No state or federal government should set down rules and regulations for local correctional problems. It's up to the local government and the local people."

Estelle continued, "I would like to see more emphasis on the use of community services in solving correctional problems. Such services could help with many correctional problems more effectively and efficiently than our jails and prisons."

The director pointed out that a recent survey of 29 county jails showed that the cost of maintaining a prisoner ranged from $3 to $33 a day and averaged about $8. Of the 17,000 people now in local jails, many are alcoholics. And the cost of keeping them in jail is tremendous. Instead they should be maintained and treated elsewhere, Estelle contended.

Weekly Market Report

Citrus continues to highlight most fruit counters this week, according to one source.

"Grapefruit and oranges of several varieties are well worth considering," Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, reported.

Strawberries are a bit more plentiful with prices generally moderate, while other fruit choices include apples, bananas and pears, the specialist said.

"Economical vegetables are cabbage, carrots, rutabagas, bulk turnips, cooking greens and celery. Prices on potatoes and dry onions are higher.

Turning to meat counters, Mrs. Clyatt noted a good supply of fryer chickens with corresponding attractive prices.

"Egg prices are higher than a year ago with Grade A, large-size eggs offering the best combination of quality and economy.

"Beef prices are slightly higher than a year ago, but most markets feature various cuts as specials, so study ads and meat counters for family preferences.

"Best beef values generally are chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks and roasts, ground beef, beef and calf liver."

She listed pork values as picnics, ham portions, end-cut lion roasts and chops, pork liver, shoulder roasts and steaks.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS

Crisp cabbage is plentiful almost year 'round.

Regardless of color and shape, look for heads that are solid, firm, and heavy for their size. Leaves should be fresh, crisp, firmly attached to the stem and free from insect injury or bruises.

Also, buy "enriched" or "whole grain" bread and bakery goods -- they cost no more. Be sure pasta products are marked "enriched", too.

Day's Labor Buys More Beef

In spite of increased prices, it takes less labor now to buy a pound of beef than it did in 1952. One hour of labor bought only 1.8 pounds of beef back then, while in February, 1973, it bought 2.9 pounds.

Sharing Learned From Parents

Even with a full toy box, some children balk at sharing, one specialist says.

Dorthy Taylor, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, discussed how a child learns to share -- and how parents influence this learning process.

"A child learns what he lives. If he lives with greed, a child learns to be greedy and not to share.

"Children aren't born with built-in sharing," she continued. "Nor do they acquire it automatically at a certain age.

"Sharing actually requires daily practice -- in judgment and in making choices about matters -- in line, of course, with the child's age and understanding of things."

To help a child start learning to share, consider his point of view, the specialist advised.

She said that toys and other favorite objects offer security to some children.

"When a parent asks a child to share all his possessions, the child loses some security. That's why parents should be sensitive to the child's feelings -- concerning toys or anything else.

"Sensitive parents listen when a child expresses his thoughts -- to show him they value his ideas.

"Also they act with fairness and consideration, so the child knows he's important.

"When parent create a sympathetic atmosphere, child draws nearer to them. As he sees them sharings and -- things, he learns to share, too."

Despite the simplicity -- and sensibility -- of these procedures, problems can arise, Miss Taylor added.

"For example, some children refuse to share anything because of a power-play with their parents. A child doing this is seeking limits or a framework in which to operate.

"In this situation, parents should exert parental power until such time when the child can make independent decisions," she said.

"Since using paternal power to control children works only under special conditions it must equal parental reward to bring about change."
